Arrest Two City Officials

Mayor Gibbons, Darnell Charged With Passing 'Smear' Handbills

Harrisburg Mayor Claud Gibbons and City Commissioner Morris Darnell last night were arrested and jailed in connection with the passing of "smear" handbills in this city Friday and Sunday nights.

A complaint issued in the court of Justice of the Peace O. L. Woods charged that each "willfully and feloniously uttered, published and distributed written statements that defamed the reputation and character of Sneed Jordan, Charles Hine, Ross Lane, L. G. Martin, Don Williams and Lee Morse in violation of the Criminal Code and Statutes of the State of Illinois."

Jordan and Hine are present members of the Harrisburg city council. Lane is police chief. Martin is fire chief. Williams is a former member of the city council and Morse is a candidate for commissioner in tomorrow's special city election.

Freed on Bond

The two city officials, arrested last night on warrants at the Gibbons funeral home by Sheriff William T. Barrett and Deputy Everett N. Sneed and taken to the Saline county jail, were freed later on bonds of $1,000 each.

The complaint against the two officials was signed by Louis A. Murphy, president of the Harrisburg Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Chief of Police Ross Lane said Murphy told him that he noticed handbills scattered on Main street and that as he travelled in his car southward on South Main he saw a light green Buick automobile, which license number he took, travelling slowly with handbills being thrown out of the auto.

Murphy told Lane that after he saw several bills thrown out he pulled up to the side of the Buick and started honking for the car to stop. When it stopped, he continued, he jumped out of the car

Reserved Bleacher Seats Available For Sectional

Harrisburg's share of reserved chairs for the Harrisburg sectional basketball tournament to be held Wednesday and Thursday and Friday nights starting at eight o'clock were sold by 8:30 a. m. today, Principal Eltis F. Henson revealed.

He emphasized that the Illinois High School Association required that 70 per cent of the seats of all quality be offered to the participating schools, thus leaving only 30 per cent of the reserved chairs, as well as other seats, for the host school.

However, he declared, there are still plenty of reserved bleacher seats available for all three games.

Wednesday night Mt. Vernon will meet Metropolis, Thursday night it will be Carrier Mills vs. West Frankfort and on Friday night the winners the first two nights will play for the championship.

Doors will open at 6:30 each night. Reserved bleacher tickets and general admission tickets, which will go on sale each night, are 75 cents each.

100 Attend National Farm Loan Meeting

Approximately 100 members, representing ten counties, attended the annual meeting of the Harrisburg National Farm Loan Association Saturday, held at Wesley Center.

Robert P. Mills, regional manager of Missouri Federal Land Bank, St. Louis, addressed the meeting on "The Cost of Money."

Mr. Mills told the group the Federal Land Bank had been able to make low cost loans for 25 years, but last year it was necessary to increase interest rates to borrowers. This was brought about by competition in the bond market which forced the payment of a much higher rate of interest to purchasers of bonds.

However, the speaker held out the possibility of lower rates in the future. He stated lower discount rates established by Federal Reserve Banks probably would be reflected in all loan organizations.

Musical entertainment included numbers by the Harrisburg Junior high school quartet—Roberta Keltner, Joyce Bridwell, Ruth Ann Bramlet and Billy Kowitz—and 4-H club members from Alexander-Pulaski counties. Miss Pat Smott and Miss Judy Atherton, accompanied at the piano by Bud 'im Dalton, sang a medley of popular songs representing the seasons of the year. Mr. Dalton also sang two solos. They were introduced by Mrs. Florida Hogenobler, 4-H club leader from Mounds.

Door prizes were awarded to Pearl Oxford, Ellettsburg; Dee Small, Marion; Mattie Unsell, Harrisburg; Mary Sundmaker, Metropolis; Earl Hathaway, Harrisburg; Mabel Gebauer, Golconda; W. E. Oxford, Ellettsburg; H. N. Fowler, Eldorado; Frank Sutton, Eldorado; Wilfred Sutton, Eldorado; Sarah Howard, Goreville; Raymond Vinyard, Harrisburg.

Guests included John Sutton, Harrisburg Production Credit Association; E. Ronald Coon, FHA supervisor, Harrisburg; Raymond Vinyard, organization director, Saline County Farm Bureau; Bill Melton, Harrisburg Daily Register; Mrs. Ruth Church, Harrisburg; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dell Vienna. Mr. Dell is work unit conservationist for Johnson and Williamson counties.

CIPS Groups to Receive Safety Record Awards

The Harrisburg group employees of Central Illinois Public Service Co. and members of a Southern Division line crew stationed in Harrisburg will be cited Wednesday for outstanding 1957 safety records.

Both units will be presented the company's annual safety award for completing 1957 without an employee losing a day's work from a personal injury.

William Hopkins, group superintendent, and William P. Hollomon, foreman of the crew, will receive the awards on behalf of their fellow employees in ceremonies scheduled for 8:30 a. m. Wednesday in the group offices here. W. A. Luecke, Marion, Southern Division manager for CIPS, will make the presentations.

The Harrisburg group employees worked 273,667 manhours from their last lost-time accident in January, 1946, to Dec. 31, 1957—more than 12 years.

In addition to Harrisburg, communities served by this CIPS group include Broughton, Carrier Mills, Galatia, Muddy, New Burnside, New Haven, Norris City, Omaha, Ozark, Stonefort, Wason and Cottonwood.

The 13 employees of the Harrisburg group are Hopkins, Albert N. Kerns, local representative at Norris City; Bobby J. Bankston, Thomas E. Stinson, Walter P. Erwin, W. E. Musgrove, Claude C. Heilig, Lewis Spangler, Jack Brown, Wilma N. Grable, Sally A. Schwartz, Imogene F. Raymer and Carolyn S. Simmons.

Members of the seven-man division line crew compiled 31,122 man hours from the last lost-time accident in October, 1955 to Dec. 31, 1957. The crew includes Holman, Ransom C. Adams, Harry M. Johnson, Carl W. Patton, Pearl F. Peterson, Gwenn Owen and Charles C. James.

President To Ask Longer Period For Jobless Pay

Court Ruling Halts Use Tax On Trade-Ins

SPRINGFIELD — The state Revenue Department today reported the state will not contest a Cook County Circuit Court ruling prohibiting the collection of the 3 per cent use tax on trade-in items.

A spokesman for the department said the collection of the tax on trade-ins was halted as of March 7, under terms of a decision handed down Friday by Cook County Circuit Judge William J. Tuohy.

The decision applies only to the trade-in items, such as automobiles, farm tractors and equipment, and refrigerators. Since Aug. 1, 1957, the use tax has been collected on the total amount of the sale, including the value of the trade-in. Thus if a dealer sold a new car for $3,000, and accepted a trade-in of $1,000 for the customer's old car, the 3 per cent tax would still apply to the total $3,000.

Under Tuohy's ruling, the tax will be applicable only to the $2,000 difference between the new car price and the value of the trade-in. However, outright sale of the old car, $1,000 in the example, will still be subject to the use tax.

The Revenue Department said under the terms of the court order about $1,500,000 collected on trade-ins which was paid under protest will not be returned to the taxpayers, but will be freed and transferred to the state general fund.

The Revenue Department ordered the use tax extended to trade-ins Aug. 1, after an Illinois Supreme Court decision upheld the constitutionality of the use tax act, and indicated that it was sufficiently broad in scope to include trade-in items.

A spokesman for the department said the trade-in aspects of the use tax had been constantly in controversy since the use-tax act was enacted, and the department would not appeal "until the 1959 Legislature has another opportunity to study the situation."

Former Woolcott Mill Whistle in Use Again in Area Storm Warning System

The shrill whistle at the Woolcott Mill was a familiar sound in Harrisburg for more than twenty years, but was silenced a quarter of a century ago. Now it has been repaired and is in service again.

The whistle was installed at the Harrisburg Dairy Saturday and will be used by the Civil Defense organization and in the tornado warning system being set up in southern Illinois.

This will mark the third distinct use of the whistle in its known history — extending back almost 100 years.

According to Harry Woolcott Sr., who had the whistle stored at his home on East Church street since it was taken out of service by the mill, the whistle was on the Steam-er Bennett and was used during the Civil War by the Union forces. The Bennett was sunk by Union forces in the Ohio river near Shawneetown to keep it from falling into the hands of the South.

Following the Civil War the boat was salvaged and Dr. John W. Mitchell, of the mill in Harrisburg, purchased the whistle and had it hauled from Shawneetown to Harrisburg.

In later years the mill was purchased from Dr. Mitchell by John "Uncle Jack" Woolcott and the whistle, requiring 100 pounds of steam pressure for operation, continued to be heard daily in Harrisburg and surrounding community until the mill converted from steam to diesel power.

"We blew the whistle four times each working day—7 a. m., 12 noon, 1 and 5 p. m. And I have heard it as far away as Stonefort," Mr. Woolcott stated recently.

Wednesday Mr. Altmire and Harry Woolcott Jr., plant engineer for the Harrisburg Dairy who supervised the installation of the whistle, accepted it from Mr. Woolcott Sr.,

Eisenhower and Congress Rush Economic Plans

Military to Spend More Money in Depressed Areas

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower will ask Congress Wednesday or Thursday to extend the number of weeks that jobless workers may draw unemployment compensation, the White House announced today.

The announcement, following up the President's Saturday statement of anti-recession plans, came as the administration and Congress rushed ahead with measures to head off a depression.

The White House gave no details but it was reported Eisenhower would propose that benefits be paid for a total of 39 weeks. Under varying state laws, the periods in which the benefits can now be drawn range from 16 to 30 weeks, with most of the large industrial states paying them for 26 weeks.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell may spell out details of Eisenhower's new plan in a speech Tuesday to the AFL-CIO emergency economic conference.

Review Defense Contracts
Other developments in the anti-recession drive:

—Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson called for quick congressional approval of resolutions urging the President to fight the business slump by spending more money on government construction projects. The President said Saturday he already is doing this as part of his new seven-point anti-recession program.

—The United Press learned that Eisenhower may add an eighth point to his program by recommending sharply increased hospital construction.

—The Defense Department announced that in line with the President's pump-priming program, the military services will spend more money on procurement in areas of unemployment and review their buying policies to "assure the maximum number of contracts" to small business in such areas. An 80 per cent increase in defense contract awards is planned for the first six months of this year.

—White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the President's entire anti-recession program will be a major topic of discussion at Eisenhower's meeting Tuesday with Republican congressional leaders.

Ask Program Speed Ups

Besides the unemployment compensation proposal, the program includes acceleration of military construction and procurement contracts, an early start of small reclamation projects, new funds for water resources projects, more spending on highways, two steps to encourage lending for new homes, and placement of more military contracts in "labor surplus" areas.

Two Runs by Fire Department

The fire department made two runs over the week-end.

At 1:10 p. m. Saturday a run was made to the home of Ownley Furman, 215 East Locust, where wiring to an electric stove caught fire. There was slight damage to a wall and cabinet.

At 3:35 p. m. Sunday a run was made to the home of Ira Stillely in the Dorrisville housing development, where a mattress caught fire. Fire Chief L. G. Martin said a small son of the Stillelys said he was shooting matches out of a device and that an ignited match caused the blaze.

Hens continue to lay eggs fast and faster, according to the Illinois Department of Agriculture. The number of eggs per layer in Illinois during January amounted to 16.5 eggs, four per cent above the December rate of lay and also four per cent better than January 1957.

Production totaled 259 million eggs, four per cent below January 1957, but the number of layers was 15,728,000, a dip of eight per cent.

Illinois hatchery production during January amounted to 2.9 million chicks, nearly 2 1/2 times greater than the previous month and 20 per cent above a year ago. The 1,712,000 egg-type chicks produced were more than eight times the number produced in December and 28 per cent greater than January 1957. Broiler chick production totaled 1,188,000, a climb of ten per cent from January 1957.

When state police engage in a manhunt these days they call for an airplane instead of a pack of bloodhounds.

According to Chief William Morris, planes and fliers from the safety section of the Illinois Department of Aeronautics flew more than 100 hours during 1957 in police-liaison work which included prison breaks, escapes from mental institutions and bank robberies.

He pointed out that planes are not designed to catch criminals but to pin them down and limit their movement following commission of a crime.

All trucks and trailers operated upon public roads in Illinois must bear the owner's name and address and the maximum empty weight of the vehicle, state police warned. The certificate or permit number, if any, must also be shown.

Chief William H. Morris said that although the law includes farm trucks, it exempts "farm tractors, farm machinery and implements, farm wagons, wagons, trailers, or like vehicles used in agricultural pursuits." It does not include house trailers.

The lettering must be at least two inches high and in a color contrasting to that of the vehicle. It may be painted or otherwise permanently fixed on both sides of the vehicle. If a vehicle carries a seal or trademark sufficiently well known to clearly identify the owner, the requirement of the address may be waived upon application.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: King Cotton Is Losing His Crown But Not His Importance In The Southeast; Alabama Farmers Are Forced Off The Farm By Diminishing Cotton Quotas; Western States Gain While Southeast Suffers.

WASHINGTON. — Ten grim-faced Alabama state legislators made a pilgrimage to Washington last week to lay before Congress the life-or-death situation confronting cotton farmers in the southeast.

The picture was a solemn one, summed up in the words of a cotton farmer, E. F. Mauldin of Leighton, Ala., now serving as a consultant to the state legislators. "Our farmers are more demoralized than ever before," Mauldin told the House Agriculture committee. "They find farm labor gone, their tenants famished or barely existing, their plows rusting, their tractors down, their mules converted to dog meat, their fields vacated and lying idle, their rural communities disappearing, and their country homes, churches, and schools standing vacant like corroded monuments to haunt the memory of what once was a cherished and respected way of life."

The causes are low prices and a gigantic 35 per cent slash, since 1953, in the number of acres allowed to be planted in cotton under Secretary Benson's "flexible" support system. For, as the nation's cotton surplus mounts, the acres planted to cotton are cut.

Meanwhile, the southeast—Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, North and South Carolina—has borne the brunt of the decline, while the acreage of such western states as California, Arizona and New Mexico has fared proportionately better.

INDIVIDUALS DON'T COUNT This is because a state's share of the national cotton acreage is based upon its average acreage in the preceding five years. And with poor cotton farmers in the southeast abandoning the soil for city jobs, Alabama's allotment has decreased, which has penalized farmers remaining on the soil. For, when their neighbor quits cotton farming, other farmers get their acreage cuts, so that some individual allotments have been cut 70 per cent since 1953 in contrast to the national acreage decrease of only 35 per cent.

The trouble, says Mauldin, is that Benson's plan reckons in terms of states and counties. The fate of the individual farmer is crassly ignored.

Result: In Alabama 125,000 farmers have signed up with the state employment service for off-farm jobs. One tractor dealer reports that he sold 50 tractors in 1955, only 32 in 1956, and just 14 in 1957. Most of the 14 he sold in 1957 had to be repossessed when farmers couldn't meet their payments.

GINNERS, BANKERS, CRUSHERS farm laborers, fertilizer manufacturers, warehousemen, and cotton merchants are all affected.

CITY JOBS DON'T HELP

According to Maynard Layman, farm editor of the Decatur Daily, the solution is not in moving farmers off the land. What Alabama needs, he says, is more marginal farmers, not fewer. He points out that it doesn't solve anything for farmers to sell out and move to the city. "Here they merely add to unemployment rolls and create all kinds of social problems. Moreover, in many cases it's just plain impossible for a man who has been a farmer all his life to make the shift to city life at the age of 45 or 50. "A pestilence has been visited upon the land of cotton," farmer Mauldin told the House committee. He proposed these solutions:

1—An increase in cotton-acreage allotments, not across the board by state, but just enough to guarantee every farmer his historic share of the nation's production.

2—A Brannan plan for cotton, whereby all American cotton would be sold without price supports at the normal level. By letting the price seek its own level cotton would better compete with nylon, dacron, and other synthetics. Instead of price supports, farmers would receive direct payments to the extent necessary to raise their income to parity with industrial workers.

Note—The soil bank hasn't helped. A total of 70,000 Alabama farmers were frozen out of the soil bank by insufficient bank funds, many of them after they had sold their implements. Even if Congress appropriates more soil bank funds, it won't help the thousands of farm laborers and tenant farmers whose jobs disappear whenever an acre of land goes into the soil bank.

Stress Growing Need for Students in Colleges to Study Foreign Languages

CARBONDALE, Ill. All high school graduates this spring need not strive to become space men. Some for instance, also may serve their nation by majoring in the Russian language.

Dr. Vera L. Peacock, chairman of the Southern Illinois University Department of Foreign Languages, says there is a growing concern, particularly in the U. S. State Department and the armed forces, for more college work in the Russian language. Southern is one of the few schools offering a major in this field.

Miss Peacock, also chairman of the Foreign Language Study Group of the Allerton House Conference on Education in Illinois, cites other current educational trends in the foreign language field as brought out in the group's report published last year:

1. There is a growing need for foreign language knowledge—not just Russian but others as well—in government, commerce, and the armed forces because of increased travel and greater vocational and business opportunities abroad, more opportunities for intercultural exchange of students, and greater need for language knowledge among armed forces stationed in foreign countries.

2. Public concern for learning foreign languages is increasing, extending even into the elementary schools. Illinois ranks above the national average in percentage of high school students in foreign language classes.

3. There is a growing popular interest in emphasizing oral work—conversational courses—in foreign languages. The public wants to be able to converse in a language other than English without mastering its grammar. This is difficult, Miss Peacock points out, because speaking is a skill that is maintained by use. Until persons find a way for frequent use of a language outside the school room—in the home or by mingling with others using the same tongue—conversational courses achieve only limited results.

4. Latin continues to be taught more than any other foreign language in Illinois high schools, but fewer new teachers are training in this field than in the modern languages—French, Spanish, and German.

5. Foreign language teachers in the state's high schools often must also teach other subjects. Approximately two thirds of the foreign language teachers spend three-fifths of their time teaching other subjects.

Christian Women's Fellowship Meets With Mrs. Frank Gray

The Christian Women's Fellowship of the First Christian church met in the home of Mrs. Frank Gray Friday afternoon. Mrs. Bess Hagler, lesson leader, and Mrs. Gray presented the program on Japan. Mrs. Roy Adams conducted the devotional service. Miss Bess Pemberton reviewed an article written by Mrs. Masako Munkata, noted church woman and educator, about the church schools in Japan and how they extend their influence. Mrs. Carrie Young related the story of a young soldier in the U. S. Army and how he influenced some Christian Japanese soldiers while he was stationed in Japan.

Mrs. Hagler had prepared a Japanese flower arrangement for the living room and explained three points or symbols as known to the Japanese. They were earth, moon and heaven. She had also prepared a fortune tree for the dining table for the pleasure of the ten guests assembled. Many Japanese buy fortunes from the "hinto" priests, she explained and if the recipient does not like his fortune, he ties it to the branch of a tree near the shrine and he believes that by so doing he may change it to a good one. Each guest "found" her fortune on the tree.

The place mats and napkins provided by Mrs. Gray for her guests were designed and drawn by Satsuki Matsumoto, famous Japanese artist and depicted the home life and activities of the Japanese people. Miniature Japanese umbrellas and noshis, a special gift symbol or seal of friendship were favors. A miniature torii, the gateway to a shrine and other Japanese articles of interest were used for decorations. Refreshments of Japanese for tea and dessert were served.

Lawrence County Clerk Named In $40,000 Suit

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ill. (AP)—The county clerk of Lawrence County was named Saturday in a $40,000 damage suit in a primary election dispute.

The suit was filed in Circuit Court by a Sam J. Gray, a school teacher, against Mrs. Pat Groves, the Republican county clerk.

Gray alleged that Mrs. Groves refused to put his name on the primary election ballot for county superintendent of schools. Gray also is a Republican.

Mrs. Groves said she did not put Gray's name on the ballot because his certificate of eligibility from the state superintendent of public instruction did not accompany his nominating petitions when he filed them.

Gray said that he filed the certificate later, but still in time to meet the filing deadline.

State's Atty. Roscoe Cunningham said he advised Mrs. Groves to place Gray's name on the ballot.

Gray, of St. Francisville teaches school at Bridgeport.

Mrs. William Trebey, Plainfield, visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Thomas, of the Big Ridge community last week. She returned to her home Sunday accompanied by her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Edward Gollmer.

First Fashions from Puerto Rico

From the sunny island of Puerto Rico come these fashions with a Spanish feeling, all of them by Puerto Rican designers. They all make use of the beautiful handwork of the island. Short evening gown (left) by Lydia Rodriguez de Gonzalez has sheath top coupled with tiered back and hemline in Spanish fashion. Embroidery is lavished over bodice and front. A simple sheath becomes elaborate (center) through allover use of applied flowers. Sheath itself is cream-colored linen, is a Carlotta Benitez design. The elegant Puerto Rican women favor island embroidery even for their leisure hour fashions. Shirt and blouse (right) by Mela Pons de Alegria use same design in hand-embroidery. Pants are in pottery-colored linen, belted high in Spanish style. These are designs which combine a romantic air with modern flavor.

A shrimp's head houses its heart and stomach; the tasty, meaty tail is the part that is eaten.

Matter of FACT

The iris is named for the Greek goddess of the rainbow. There are about 200 species, all of which are native to lands north of the equator. Long ago flower-loving peoples carried other kinds of irises with them in their travels; so it is difficult to tell where in the Old World they grew originally. Instead of being related to the lily, the iris is a member of a family which includes the gladiolus, the crocus and the freesia.

Churches Wage Common War Against Alcoholism; Differ on Temperance

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press Staff Correspondent

American churches are soft-pedaling their ancient differences over temperance in order to wage common war against alcoholism.

They are learning that they can work together against excessive use of alcohol without necessarily seeing eye-to-eye on the morality of moderate drinking.

All Christian bodies teach that temperance is a virtue and that drunkenness is a sinful abdication of the power of self-control.

But for generations, there have been two sharply conflicting schools of thought about what temperance means.

Some denominations, like the Methodists and Baptists, have held that it means total abstinence from alcoholic beverages.

Others, like the Catholics and Episcopalians, have held that it means being temperate—that is, restricting consumption to appropriate times and places, and to quantities that will not produce intoxication.

Neither of these viewpoints has been abandoned. But there is a strong tendency among churches to declare a truce in the dispute about moderate drinking and stress their universal concern about the spreading blight of alcoholism.

Adopts Policy

Last month, for the first time in its history, the National Council of Churches adopted an official policy statement on the alcohol problem. It was endorsed by representatives of 34 denominations who sit on the council's general board.

The statement was notably devoid of the self-righteous tone which once characterized many church pronouncements on the demon rum.

It treated the nation's five million alcoholics, not as moral lepers, but as sufferers who desperately need the "healing ministry" of the Christian Church.

"We recognize that once drinking has passed a certain point, it becomes alcoholism, an affliction which cannot be met effectively by the unaided efforts of the victims," the church leaders said.

"We recognize the complex origins of alcoholism and excessive drinking in social pressures, emotional instability, bodily functioning and the nature of alcohol itself."

Accepts Differences

The statement acknowledged "differences of conscientious conviction" on whether the prevention of alcoholism requires total abstinence or legal prohibition of the sale of alcoholic beverages. But it said that even those churches which regard all drinking as evil have an obligation to extend competent and sympathetic help to alcoholics and their families.

"Alcoholics are persons in need of diagnosis, understanding, guidance and treatment. They are especially in need of pastoral care and the divine love which the church can bring them."

The church statement was heartening to groups, such as the National Council of Alcoholism, which have been trying to organize an effective fight against the affliction which now ranks as the nation's number four public health problem.

One authority said its potential impact may be comparable to that of the historic resolution which the American Medical Association adopted in November, 1956. The AMA resolution officially recognized alcoholism as a "treatable disease" and called on all doctors and hospitals to accept alcoholics as patients.

What the AMA said to the medical profession, the National Council of Churches has now said to the ministry.

Greelings from Mrs. Eisenhower Launches 46th Anniversary of Girl Scouting

With greetings from Mrs. Eisenhower on the 46th Girl Scout Birthday, more than 3 million Girl Scouts today launched the annual observance of Girl Scout Week by rededicating themselves to the service of their neighbors and communities.

Mrs. Eisenhower, who is honorary president of the Girl Scouts, said in her birthday message that the partnership of girls and adults in Girl Scouting "gives assurance that our young girls will continue to develop those qualities of self-reliance, dependability and initiative which are basic to the American way of life."

"Moreover," Mrs. Eisenhower continued, "in a democracy, it is essential that each individual contribute to the good of all. The Girl Scouts' Promise and Laws add strength to our country's long tradition of neighborly service at home and abroad."

Through their 1958 theme, "You Can Count on Her — To Be of Service," Girl Scouts across the country are undertaking service projects to help the aged, the handicapped, and the sick. For the 2,300,000 girls and 700,000 adults in Girl Scouting, service projects take many forms.

In Atlanta, Ga., one Girl Scout troop alone has given over 700 hours of community service and, in addition, members have taken training to be occupational therapy aides so they can work with handicapped children.

A number of current Girl Scout service projects are in support of local Civil Defense operations. In Mt. Vernon, Ill., Girl Scouts initiated and conducted a census of children for Civil Defense authorities and are prepared to give special aid to children in case of disaster.

In Pasadena, Calif., Girl Scouts have been working at the Civil Defense Filter Center. The girls' work has included answering phones on lookout towers and plotting plane positions. In Ventura County, Calif., Wing Scouts working in Civil Defense learned how to plot radio-active fallout patterns and how to take protective measures against radio-activity.

In carrying out their theme, Girl Scouts do not forget animals. In Denver, Colo., Girl Scout service includes rounding up stray horses and returning them to their owners. In Tallahassee, Fla., Girl Scout service is for the birds — birds that have been starving in Florida's abnormally cold winter. To help them, Girl Scouts are threading grapes, raisins, berries, and popcorn on strings and hanging the strings on trees. A variation in the bird diet is melted suet and corn meal spread into pine cones.

Many Girl Scout service projects are spontaneous reactions to situations which impress young children. A young troop in Lawrenceburg, Ind., performed janitorial service for a church while the janitor was on a 3-week vacation. In Seattle, Wash., a troop of Girl Scouts wrote and produced a puppet play for children with cerebral palsy, and Brownie Scouts and Girl Scouts in Wichita, Kans., made more than 4,000 dolls for underprivileged and handicapped children.

As Girl Scouts this week observe the anniversary of the founding of their movement, started by Juliette Low in Savannah, Ga., on March 12, 1912, they will renew their efforts to live up to their theme, "You Can Count on Her — To Be of Service," and the Girl Scout Law, "A Girl Scout's duty is to be useful and to help others."

Matter of FACT

The Army conducted the first naval fleet action of the United States. Under Gen. Benedict Arnold, a small fleet was built on Lake Champlain. On Oct. 11, 1776, it fought the British ships at Valcour Island, and nearly the entire fleet was sunk. The battle was important because it delayed the British army in Canada for a year, giving the Colonists time to amass an army in New York.

Rumor Wedding Plans by Ingrid And Producer

GOTHENBURG, Sweden (UP)—Actress Ingrid Bergman and the 45-year-old theatrical producer who brought her here to meet his parents go separate ways Tuesday—but all signs indicated the separation would be only temporary.

Miss Bergman, whose romance with Italian film producer Roberto Rossellini flowered on the Mediterranean island of Stromboli, told newsmen Sunday she will return to spend the summer on an island newly purchased by her Swedish bachelor friend Lars Schmidt.

Neither she nor Schmidt would confirm "at present" that they intend to marry after her separation from Rossellini becomes permanent. But they wouldn't deny it, either.

Asked point blank about wedding rumors, Miss Bergman just smiled. Schmidt said: "I have to talk like a diplomat. I can neither confirm nor deny these rumors."

The pair apparently met while Miss Bergman was appearing in Paris in Robert Anderson's play "Tea and Sympathy," to which Schmidt has European production rights. They have been seen together in Paris and London frequently since Miss Bergman and Rossellini separated several months ago.

Methodists Vote to Aid Institutions

CENTRALIA, Ill. (UP)—The Southern Illinois Conference has voted to raise $100,000 annually for Methodist-supported higher educational institutions.

The support was approved Saturday at a special session of the conference called here by Bishop Charles W. Brashares of Chicago.

The host pastor, the Rev. Mr. Farrell Jenkins, said 65 per cent of the fund will go to McKendree College at Lebanon, 15 per cent to the Garrett Biblical Institute in Chicago, 15 per cent to the Wesley Foundation at Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, and 5 per cent to the Wesley Foundation at the University of Illinois, Urbana.

Jenkins said the action was taken to "keep pace" with the advances of other higher educational institutions. The money will be raised by 490 Methodist churches in the conference, including some 80,000 members and will be on a continuing yearly basis, starting with the fiscal year on June 1.

The vote of ministers and lay delegates comprising the session was 187-37 in favor of the assessment.

The Southern Illinois Conference extends from Cairo on the south to Jerseyville, Litchfield and Robinson on the north.

Jenkins said the other two Methodist conferences in Illinois have taken or will take similar steps.

She was listening to hillbilly music on the car radio and Summers wanted it turned off. They pulled into the driveway of a Marion home and continued their argument while the hillbilly music played on.

The homeowner was awakened and called authorities.

"I hate to pay the fine, but at least I got that music stopped," Summers said.

Prisoner Saws His Way Out Of Marion Jail

Believe Wife Was Waiting in Get-Away Auto

MARION, Ill. (UP)—Authorities today sought a slippery, pint-sized prisoner who sawed his way out of jail while eight other inmates watched but did not follow.

Raymond Corbin, 35, a 135-pounder from Providence, R. I., fled Sunday night. Authorities believed his wife was waiting near the jail with a get-away car.

Corbin was held on a burglary and larceny charge in the theft of $2,000 from the Herrin Knights of Columbus lodge about a month ago.

Authorities said eight other prisoners in the cell block watched in silence as Corbin sawed away the bars from a window, pushed out a screen and dropped 10 feet to freedom.

The escape was not detected until about four hours later when Deputy Sheriff Rex Roland brought two other prisoners to the cell block.

Corbin was jailed last Wednesday after his arrest in Miami, Fla., by the FBI on a fugitive warrant in the Herrin burglary. Corbin was accused by John Bernard, 26, also of Providence, who told police the fugitive was his accomplice in the burglary. Bernard was in a difference cell block when Corbin escaped.

Bernard was arrested shortly after the burglary when a filling station attendant at Waterloo, Ill., noticed bank sacks in the trunk of his car and notified police. Bernard told authorities he had taken Corbin to St. Louis to catch a plane to Miami.

In the meantime, a blonde identified as Corbin's wife and another woman identified as Bernard's wife arrived in Marion. Authorities said the blonde apparently helped Corbin escape.

Young Republicans In Illinois Endorse Record of Ike

CHICAGO (UP)—The Young Republicans of Illinois have adopted a 1958 platform endorsing the Eisenhower administration record on civil rights, defense, foreign policy and economic policy.

The 325 delegates, who concluded a two-day convention here Saturday afternoon, also praised Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson and his policy of "transition from rigid price supports to flexible price supports."

In an address to the group, Sen. Thurston B. Morton (R-Ky.) said the outcome of the 1958 congressional election will depend "largely on the economic situation."

"The people are politically responsive to economic conditions," Morton said. "If times are good enough in October, the Republican Party will do a good job."

U. S. Admits Air Violations

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—The United States admitted today its planes violated North Korean air space three times last Thursday but told the Communists they had violated the spirit of the Korean armistice agreement by shooting down one of the planes.

The pilot of a downed F-86 Sabrejet, Capt. Leon Pfeiffer of Kenosha, Wis., was disclosed by the Communists to have parachuted safely. They said he was receiving "humanitarian treatment" and would be returned when they were ready to return him.

Pfeiffer and Lt. Ronald E. Martin, 25, of Cincinnati, Ohio, were training with South Korean ground troops when they flew over North Korea and were fired on by anti-aircraft guns. Martin returned safely but Pfeiffer's plane was hit and he jumped.

U. S. Army Maj. Gen. Olaf Keyser admitted the violation and said a second flight of two F-86s also made a navigational error which took them over North Korea while looking for Pfeiffer. A helicopter did the same thing on its search mission, he said.

West Frankfort and Rock Falls Face Tough Fight In Sectional Tournaments

By United Press
Rock Falls and West Frankfort, ranked second and fourth in the state, appeared today to face the toughest prospects for advancing to the Sweet 16 round of the state high school basketball tournament.

Action resumes in 15 downstate sectional tournaments Wednesday, while the Chicago Public League semifinals start play Tuesday to determine Chicago's representative in the Sweet 16 final.

Rock Falls, which sailed through the regionals and scored 142 points in one game, has been beaten only once in 29 games. But even the Rockets' ardent fans concede they did not play a generally strong schedule.

Hence they are expected to get their sternest test yet Wednesday when they collide with the Rockford East E-Rabs in the Rockford sectional. East suffered only three defeats in 24 games with a schedule that included all the Big Eight conference teams.

West Frankfort also had no trouble in the regionals and lost only three times all season.

But the Redbirds meet Carrier Mills, with a 26-1 record in the first round of the Harrisburg sectional. And if it gets by Carrier Mills, West Frankfort is expected to run into Mount Vernon, which plays Metropolis in the first round, in the sectional final.

Mount Vernon owns one of the three victories over West Frankfort, but also lost to the Redbirds twice during the season. Four points was the widest margin in any of the games.

Jacksonville's sixth ranked Crimsons also face a strong foe in the first round of the Springfield sectional in Big 12 Conference championship Springfield.

Jacksonville takes a 24-4 record into the sectional while the Senators are 21-8.

Defending state champion Herin has to rate as the favorite at the Pinckneyville sectional on the basis of its 26-3 record and the stiff competition it faced all season. The Tigers meet Tammis, 26-2, in the first round. The other first round game matches East St. Louis Lincoln, 21-4, against the Pinckneyville Panthers, who slipped from their perennial position of power to a 15-12 record this season.

Quincy, which bumped off once-beaten Quincy Notre Dame in the regionals, also rates the Favorite's role at the Quincy sectional. The Blue Devils meet Bushnell in the first round, while Warsaw plays Mount Sterling in the other first round game.

Edwardsville Tabbed Favorite
The Geneseo sectional figures as one of the toughest. It includes Alwood, the only team with a perfect record in the tourney at 30-0. Galesburg, 19-7, Fulton, 23-2, and Moline, 21-5, which upset highly regarded Rock Island in the regionals.

Edwardsville probably should be tabbed the favorite at Wood River, which its opposition includes Litchfield, Jerseyville and Centralia. Edwardsville is 19-9, compared with Jerseyville's 25-3 mark but Edwardsville played all season in the strong Southwest Conference.

Elgin, 17-7, and Barrington, 19-5, figure as the favorites at Arlington Heights where the other entries are Maine and Warren.

Generally the other sectionals must be rated as tossups.

The field at Canton includes the host club at 19-6, and Peoria Spalding at 23-5.

Tiny Tiskilwa which knocked off LaSalle and Princeton in the regionals, is entered at LaSalle along with Ottawa, Toluca and Fairbury.

Also included in the tossup category are the sectionals at Aurora East, Champaign, Decatur, Thornton, and Olney.

Knicks Defeat Warriors, 123-81; Hawks Lose, 107-99

By United Press
The New York Knickerbockers are still "alive" today in their battle for a National Basketball Association playoff berth but the patient's condition couldn't be more critical.

The Knicks, who staved off the crusher with a 123-81 triumph over the Philadelphia Warriors Sunday, can tie for third place only by beating the champion Celtics two straight games in Boston. Even then, the Warriors would have to lose their remaining games to St. Louis and Syracuse.

The Knicks' chances of beating the Celtics twice in Boston may be assessed by a simple statistic. The Celtics' season record at home is 24-3—the third loss a 121-107 decision to the Cincinnati Royals Sunday. The two games are scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

George Yardley became the first pro basketball player to score 2,000 points in a single season as the Syracuse Nationals beat the Detroit Pistons, 111-90; and the Minneapolis Lakers defeated the St. Louis Hawks, 107-99, in the other Sunday games.

Illinois Wins Indoor Track, Fencing Titles

CHICAGO — Four Big Ten crowns in indoor track, wrestling, swimming and fencing glittered on the heads of three championship teams today.

Illinois were two of the crowns for victories in indoor track and fencing. Michigan won its headpiece by regaining the swimming title after a 10-year wait and Iowa pinned down the wrestling title.

The Illini, in the cellar at the end of the 1957 indoor track season, piled up 47 1/2 points to win the 1958 title at Champaign, Ill., Saturday. Four conference records were set and one was equalled in the 15-event meet.

Glenn Davis, Olympic record holder in the 400-meter hurdle, led the meet's individual high scorers, with 19 1/2 points, led Ohio into second place. Indiana, defending champion, finished third with 35. Following were Purdue 24, Michigan State 19, Iowa 17, Minnesota 16 1/2, Michigan 16, Wisconsin 11, and Northwestern 6.

Michigan churned up 112 points to take the conference swimming title, defeating defending champion Michigan State.

Iowa, one of four favorites, emerged Big Ten wrestling champion while defending Minnesota took fourth.

Illinois was second in the meet with 48 points to Iowa's 51. Following were Michigan State 44, Minnesota 35, Indiana 28, Michigan 28, Purdue 22, Ohio State 15, Wisconsin 4, and Northwestern 3.

Illinois won the fencing crown when Arthur Schankin broke a four-way tie in the event at Lansing, Mich., with Gerald McCalla of Michigan State, Ron Lendieux of Wisconsin and Tom Brown of Iowa.

Indiana Wins Big Ten Championship; Sets Sights on NCAA Title

CHICAGO — Indiana's Big Ten basketball champs opened practice today with an aim of winning their second national title in eight years.

The Hoosiers won the right to represent the Big Ten in Friday's NCAA regional finals at Lexington, Ky., by beating Michigan State, 75-72, for the conference crown.

The title was the third for veteran coach Branch McCracken's teams, not to mention a share of the prize last year. McCracken's 1953 quintet defeated Louisiana State for the eastern NCAA championship and then trimmed Kansas, 69-68, for the national bauble.

McCracken, in Chicago for a meeting, took his team's new conference honor matter-of-factly.

"I've never put a team on the floor that I didn't think could win," he said. "The boys who

On April 18, after 72 hours of savage fighting, during which the lava stronghold of the Modocs was heavily pounded with mortar shells by artillery units that had arrived on the scene, forces attacking from two sides at once finally achieved junction along the lake shore, thus cutting the Modocs off from their water supply. That night, Captain Jack and his people slipped away like ghosts, leaving the shell-battered stronghold for the weary troopers to occupy next day.

On the trail, Sebastian heard nothing of this, nor, while in Crescent City with April's end just four days distant, of the Thomas and Wright massacre, when troops under the two-named officers were ambushed deep in the lavas and almost annihilated.

But he was back in Yreka, early in May, when word of the battle of Dry Lake came in, telling of the disastrous defeat the Modocs had taken at the hands of the dogged, determined, long-suffering military. Later advices told that following their Dry Lake defeat, the Modocs had broken up into small bands and scattered to the four winds. And this, Sebastian knew, meant that now the final end was not far off.

They laid over at the ranch for several days, resting up the pack string and repairing worn equipment. Then they left in time to meet Bill Wiggin, as promised, on June 1 at the Blue Mountain camp. Around the fire they swapped trail gossip and Wiggin came up with one item which tightened Ward Sebastian's jaw and narrowed his eyes.

"We got competition shapin' up on the Surprise Valley trade," Wiggin said. "Atwood and Carter are reachin' out from Linkville, accordin' to what I heard comin' through from Fort Klamath. And who do you think they got lined up to run a string for them? Provo Holt. Yes, sir, I saw Holt and a half-breed helper gettin' a string ready for the first trip. Man, you'd think Ray Atwood and Charley Carter could get somebody more reliable than Provo Holt."

Sam Lester spat into the fire. "I was hopin' Provo Holt had either fell off a high hill or into a deep hole by this time."

"No such luck," grumbled Wiggin. "His kind just keeps clutterin' up a good world and causin' trouble."

Ward stirred restlessly.

The bearded packer sucked at his pipe in silence for a little time before going on.

"Saw Nick Dutra's widow up at Klamath. She sure looked fine and pretty. I talked some with her. She's set to marry up with a young officer who was wounded in that first big lava-beds fight, and she was just singin' happy about it, so I was glad for her too. I allus did like Kitty Dutra."

Later in the evening, with Bill Wiggin snoring in his blankets, Ward Sebastian crouched by the fire, silent over a pipe long gone cold. Beside him, Sam Lester finally spoke abruptly.

"You got a lick of sense, you'll head for Fort Klamath first thing in the mornin'."

Sebastian turned his head, met Sam's shrewd, puckered glance. "Wise old fox, eh?"

Sam shrugged. "Constance Ashland ain't been out of your mind since the night she caught up with us at Mike Golway's place. Not that I blame you any, understand, for there's one girl who's the pure quill."

"And she's been Army all her life," Sebastian said gravely. "She's not the sort to change easy."

"How do you know about that unless you go find out?" Sam demanded. "Boy, come mornin', you get out of here. With no loads to wrangle, I can take the string back to the ranch by myself."

Sebastian stood up, prowled about the fading fire coals a couple of times. Finally he nodded and spoke softly.

"All right, Sam. Tomorrow I ride!"

With no pack string in front of him, Sebastian traveled fast, his horse strong in morning's chill.

Toward midmorning he rode through a ragged fringe of timber and faced a stretch of water, spiked with scattered clumps of grass.

But it wasn't sight of a flight of swallows that caused Sebastian to set his horse up sharply and swing back into the timber. It was sound, the quick, ragged rattle of gunfire, somewhere out past the spread of surface water.

Sebastian listened, at the same time sliding his rifle from the scabbard under his knee and laying the weapon across the saddle in front of him. As nearly as he could tell, perhaps a dozen shots had made up that burst of firing. Certainly more than one gun. But why the shooting and at what?

A moment later he got partial answer. From a fringe of mahogany brush broke a pack animal under full load. It splashed out into the water, slowed to a stop and stood spread-legged and with sagging head. Abruptly its knees caved and it went heavily down, to kick once or twice, then go shrunken and still.

Came further sound from beyond the mahogonies where a belt of timber lifted. Out there a man set up a wild, high crying, a sound carrying pain and terror. It struck a peak of hoarse agony, then broke sharply off into a throbbing silence.

Watching, listening, Ward Sebastian waited, waited through long minutes.
